

HAPPENINGS IN AND ABOUT TOWN

REAL FORSYTHE IS COMING HERE

Will Likely Press Case Against Man Held in Jail Here Who Stole His Wife.

Basel Forsythe is speeding toward South Bend from Elmyra, N. Y., to tell the police here what he knows of the man who stole his wife and his name and is now free under $200 bond upon a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. E. H. Miller, alias Forsythe, alias Williams, alias most any name he happened to think of, is the alleged wife thief, while the police here are calling him the "Man of Mystery." Miller has thus far refused to tell anyone where he came from, except that he was born in Philadelphia, asserting that he has no home or parents.

Marjorie Forsythe, the woman who is alleged to have run away with Miller, and who testified in city court that she married Miller under the name of Forsythe in Elmyra, N. Y., on Aug. 26, 1912, cannot be found by the South Bend authorities although she was here last Sunday. Since then her daily visits to the jail have ceased and apparently she has fled the city.

Word was received here Wednesday morning that the real Forsythe was on his way to South Bend and was expected to reach the city late this evening. In letters and telegrams to the South Bend police it was asserted by Forsythe that Miller is the man who stole his wife and adopted his name. It is believed he is coming to South Bend in the hope of getting in touch with his wife, but whether he has any desire to prosecute her is not known by the local police. Their purpose in trying to find the woman was to learn whether the Elmyra man's story is true. Chief Kuespert said that he could not arrest the woman upon a specific charge, but was anxious to have an interview with her. Although detectives have been searching for her since early Monday morning they have been unable to locate her.

Gets More Evidence. Deputy Pros. S. P. Schwartz has accumulated more evidence that Miller has been operating a swindle game. Reports from Terre Haute, Evansville, Port Wayne, Indianapolis, towns in Ohio and Pennsylvania show that Miller took orders for magazines in those places, collected money and left town. He worked under different names in practically every town. When arrested here he had secured $2 from the Museum of Art in payment for a subscription to the Leslie-Judge magazine company, operating under the name of E. H. Miller. The detectives found Miller and the woman he claimed as his wife, registered at the Avenue hotel under the name of Mr. and Mrs. Basil Forsythe.

Just what will happen when the real husband appears on the scene is a matter of conjecture. When Miller was confronted with the report that it had been learned that he was not the woman's husband he seemed a bit taken back, but managed to smile as he denied the story. When questioned about his family he told different stories, and finally asserted he was without relatives. The circuit court grand jury will meet early in May and at that time Deputy Pros. Schwartz will place the evidence against Miller before the jurors and ask for an indictment.

THREE ARE HELD FOR COAL THEFTS

West Side Gang Steals Fuel by Tons—Stringent Measures to be Taken.

Determined that an end must come to the robbing of freight cars and stealing coal from trains on the west side, New York Central railroad officials have given orders to the special agents here to take drastic measure to stop the depredations. Three young men are now under arrest and held by the police department for stealing over three tons of coal from a freight train near the Winkler factory Tuesday afternoon, while others are being sought by Special Agent Kings.

Car seals are broken, coal is thrown from moving trains by gangs of men and boys and even passenger trains are attacked, according to the railroad officials. Special Agent Kings was called to the west side Tuesday afternoon because one of a gang of thieves had broken a large stone through the window of a passenger train car. Luckily no one was hurt by the stone, although it was pointed out by railroad officials that continuance of such actions means eventual injury to passengers.

When the special agent went to the west side Tuesday he found a gang of men and boys aboard a slow moving freight train near the Winkler factory unloading coal as fast as they could throw it from the cars. The gang fled when the officer approached, but he recognized many of them and captured two of them. He later picked up a third. They are booked at the police station as Steve and George Chodinski, 2421 Linden av., and George Chodinski, 2700 W. Napier st. The fourth man being sought is Frank Chodinski, brother of George.

It is understood that the New York Central railroad paid out over $1,000 during the last month as damages to shippers whose goods had been stolen while passing through South Bend. This loss consists of coal, lumber, and products which are shipped in sealed cars. Practically every day some car is entered and goods stolen, according to the railroad officials. That one reason for this is that when arrested the prisoners are given suspended sentences or "lectured" instead of being punished, is the belief of the railroad officials.

WETS AND DRY SPLIT EVEN IN TWO STATES

International News Service: CHICAGO, April 5.—Illinois wets and dries fought a draw at the polls yesterday, with the local association of returns today. Approximately 200 saloons were ousted, and approximately the same number will be installed in territory that has been dry for the past two years.

Both the wets and dries, however, claimed a victory for their side. The big dry victories were in Moline, Vanokan, Mt. Pleasant, Dixon, Annawan and Odell. About 75 other townships now dry remained dry.

The chief wet victory was in Bloomington, which returned to the saloons after two years of drouth. Fifteen other dry towns of varying sizes voted wet, and about 30 others already wet voted to retain the saloons.

The vote was comparatively close in all but five of the larger cities. Aurora and Rock Island voted wet by huge majorities, while Champagne, DeKalb and Decatur remained dry by majorities equally as great.

We have carried the battle right to Chicago's city limits, said J. Scott McBride, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league. Reports indicated today that women voters played an important part wherever the issue was close. Excellent weather and hot campaign methods drew them out in great numbers.

International News Service:

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 5.—Wets and dries in Wisconsin split practically even in yesterday's elections, according to revised figures today. The dries, however, claimed a notable victory in gaining Superior, the second city of the state, which voted to oust the saloons by a bare majority of 33. There probably will be a contest. Superior has 163 saloons. Menominee also joined the dry ranks by a majority of 30.

Ashland, Beloit, Antigo and Bayfield were among the 30 odd towns that voted wet.

PLAYS WILSON IN KEY-NOTE AT G. O. P. MEET

paredness issue. He pointed out that the democratic party had for a long time opposed the efforts of the republicans to increase the army and navy. "Now that grave questions confront us," he added, "our president and his party change front entirely on this subject of preparedness. But they do not do so until they are brought face to face with the necessity of doing so." He concluded this point by branding the administration leaders either as obstructionists, or not being wise enough to forecast this necessity.

Judge Myers also criticized Pres't Wilson's plan for a bipartisan tariff commission. He asserted that the republican party for years had contended for a tariff commission. In this connection he said, "Let us have a tariff commission, but let it be composed of friends of the protection tariff, not office enemies or hybrids. Any commission appointed under a democratic president is bound to be in accord with the democratic idea of tariff for revenue only and would strike at the very root of the principle of protection and continue the industrial uncertainty."

Speaks on State Debt.

Further criticism passed by Judge Myers was on the subject of state debts. He said that the democratic party had been in power for the first time since 1835 Indiana had been purged from debt. Replying to this argument, he said that there was now a debt of $270,615.12. He backed up his statement by saying that the administrations preceding the democratic regime had paid off over $5,000,000 in debts of the total of $5,850,615.12 indebtedness, while the three democratic governments had paid off only $2,815,615.12. The speaker said that these statistics were taken from the books of the auditor of state.

Quoting more statistics, Judge Myers asserted that the state tax levy had increased from 33 cents in the $100 in 1892 to 40 1/2 cents in 1915, despite a large increase in taxable property. He quoted other statistics to show the increase of expenditures made by the democrats. He ended with an eulogy of the party.

Estabrook Follows.

Following Judge Myers' speech, Henry D. Estabrook of New York, was introduced. Estabrook congratulated the republicans on their showing and said that the "party that he once thought was going into innocent desuetude was now coming back." Estabrook discussed the various issues of the national campaign and paid considerable attention to the tariff.

"The issues in the political campaign that is fast upon us are covered generally in the one word 'preparedness,'" said Estabrook. "Just as in the issues of life all the virtues seem to converge and focus in that one word 'temperance.'"

"The man whom the republicans will nominate in 1916 is not so important as that there should be a united party back of him."

Estabrook took a fling at ex-Pres't Taft for saying that progressives would back like prodigal sons. The speaker said these men would not come back in sack cloth and ashes, but with hand-claps and a smile. He said republicans must forgive and forget.

two mines which damaged the enemy's trench.

"West of the Meuse the night was comparatively calm."

"East of the Meuse we have engaged in many partial combats, in the course of which we have advanced into the communicating trenches north of Callette wood."

"In the Woivre region there was a violent bombardment in the sectors of Moulin and the Champagne. The Germans threw into the Meuse river north of St. Mihiel 22 mines which exploded under our barriers without causing any damage."

"In Lorraine, the Germans, after violently bombarding our positions between Aracourt and St. Martin, launched numerous light infantry attacks at intervals against different points on that sector. The enemy was thrown back at every point by the fire of our machine guns and our artillery."

"In the Vosges a strong reconnaissance force of the enemy which attacked to reach our trenches southeast of Celles was easily dispersed."

"In the region of Verdun, our scouting aeroplanes fought on April 4 15 aerial combats in the course of which a German biplane was brought down near Etange-Hauts-Fourneaux. Another machine of the enemy fell near Tilly woods."

"The German aeroplanes descended sharply to the ground. All our pilots returned unharmed."

"On the night of April 3-4 one of our bombing squadrons threw 14 shells on the station at Nantuilles and five on the camp at Damvillers."

ASKS FOR DIVORCE.

Alleging that her husband was an habitual drunkard, Nora Whiteman Wednesday filed suit in the circuit court for a divorce from Claude Whiteman. She asks judgment against her husband for $750, alleging that property held in their name of the probable value of $1,500, was half hers.

POSTPONE PLAY.

The dramatic club of the Oliver Civics center are obliged to again postpone postponement of their first play, "The Confidential Clerk," due to sickness. No definite date has as yet been set.

SHIFTS BLAME OF WAR SLAUGHTER ON ALLIES

Albania and Montenegro have been taken by the German allies, that the English attempt to relieve Kut-El-Amara has been checked, that the Russian advance into Turkey has been checked, following the occupation of Ezerum by them, that the Italian offensive has failed and that the Russian attacks against the Austro-Hungarians on the Galician front have broken down.

"I recognize that living conditions in Germany are not easy," said the chancellor, "but the difficulties are being borne in admirable fashion by the whole nation, especially by the poorer classes. Winter crops are good. In fact, it has been many years since reports were so hopeful."

Bread Supply Holds Out.
"The harvest of 1915 was the worst in decades; nevertheless our stock of bread will not only be sufficient, but will leave a good reserve, which will enter the new year. We shall not run short of anything in the future as we did in the past."

Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg pointed out that the allies were trying to extend the war to German women and children by starving them, saying in this connection:

"I was for this purpose that England and her allies have been violating the commercial trade of neutrals."

"The American note of Nov. 5 last gave an exact description of English violations of the law of nations, but so far as I know that note has never been answered."

"No even-minded neutral, no matter whether he favors us or not, can doubt our right to defend ourselves against the war of starvation which is contrary to international law. No one can ask us to allow our arms of defense to be wrested from us. We use them and we must use them."

(In this connection the chancellor referred to submarines and zeppelins.)

"We respect the legitimate rights of neutral trades and commerce, but we also expect that this respect shall be reciprocated."

Will Solve Polish Question.
"We expect that our right to use all available means against this policy of starvation, which is a jeering insult not only to the laws of nations, but to humanity itself, shall be respected."

At the outbreak of the war neither Germany nor Austria-Hungary had expected to touch the Polish question, but the fate of battles had forced it upon them, the chancellor said.

"Now that this problem stands before the world, demanding a solution, Germany and Austria have decided to solve it," continued the speaker. "Victory will never allow things to remain as they were before, especially in such an earthquake as this war."

Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg declared there must be a new Belgium. At the same time he said it must not be expected that Germany could ever again deliver into Russian hands the Polish provinces captured by the Teutons.

Call Charges Calumny.

The most impressive part of Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg's speech was his declaration that Germany does not contemplate aggression against the United States at this or any future time.

"Last spring," said the speaker, "a campaign of calumny was directed against us in which it was said that after this war, we intended to insult the United States by conquering Canada. This was the silliest of all the inventions directed against us. Equally silly was the report that we coveted the acquisition of any American territory in Brazil or any other country in the Americas."

"We are fighting for our existence and for our future. We fight for Germany and not for the space in any foreign land."

"We are fighting for our existence and for our future. We fight for Germany and not for the space in any foreign land."

CHICAGO VOTE REBUFF TO MAYOR THOMPSON

Democrats Win 21 Out of 35 Wards.

Party Lines Are Shattered.

International News Service: CHICAGO, April 5.—Chicago re-buffed Mayor Thompson's republican administration at yesterday's municipal election by electing 21 democratic aldermen out of 35 wards, according to unofficial figures today.

A year ago Mayor Thompson's republican ticket swept the city by the largest plurality ever recorded. One ward went socialist yesterday and the remaining 13 republican.

The only issue having a strictly party aspect was the election of a municipal judge which went to Leo J. Doyle, democrat, by an estimated plurality of 20,000.

Party lines in the aldermanic contests were badly shattered. The administration has been under fire for the past several months and the suicide of Dr. Theodore B. Sachs, late head of the municipal tuberculosis sanitarium, which his friends charged was caused by "poison politics," only added to the general confusion.

LEAZENBY COLLEGE HEAD

International News Service: SEYMOUR, Ind., April 5.—Rev. U. G. Leazenby of Crawfordsville, is the new president of Moores Hill college. Dr. A. J. Kinney, who has been acting president since Dr. Harry G. King resigned a year ago, will be dean of the college.

Rev. Mr. Leazenby was formerly pastor of Grace M. E. church, South Bend.

SIGNAL OFFICERS MAY BE TRIED

Court Martials Likely to Grow Out of Charges Against Aviation Corps.

International News Service: WASHINGTON, April 5.—Sec'y of War Baker today announced that after reviewing the report of the officers of the general staff who investigated charges that the army aviation corps is inefficient, he had reached his decision. He will not make it public, however, he said, until after he has considered the case of Lieut. Col. Lewis E. Goodier, who was a judge advocate in the army, was tried by court martial for criticizing the conduct of the San Diego aviation school.

The court martial of high officials of the aviation section of the army signal corps is predicted in army circles as a result of the investigation just completed. Col. Samuel Reber has been under fire ever since the court martial of Col. Goodier. It is charged that he wrote to Capt. Arthur S. Cowan, formerly head of the aviation training school at San Diego:

"Although you might not be efficient, you should pretend that you are and continue in office."

It is stated semi-officially today that Lieut. Col. Squire, recalled military attacks of the American embassy in London, although first to be sent to San Diego as commandant of the aviation training school, ultimately will succeed Col. Reber as head of the aviation branch of the signal corps.

Sec'y Baker would not discuss reports that Gen. Funston is urging the war department to insist on the use of all Mexican railways.

He said there are no developments in the situation as to the use of the railways.

Gen. Funston today sent to the war department the following dispatch he had received from Gen. Pershing:

"Met Col. Dodd at Providencia and discussed with him the execution of the march with the seventh cavalry and the work done by that organization to overtake Villa deserves the highest of praise."

FUNSTON WANTS FREE USE OF MEXICAN RAILROADS FOR MEN

Mexican train across the Rio Grande from El Paso.

A firing squad was ready to carry out the sentence of death and in their midst the three convicted men waited the summons to march out to the adobe wall already marked by hundreds of bullets, when Gen. Gaviarra issued his order of delay.

In addition to the three men already doomed to death, two dozen others are awaiting military trial which will decide whether they, too, shall fill one of the shallow graves that dot the pages of Mexican history.

Officers of Gaviarra's staff said today that there was conclusive evidence against all the prisoners that they shared in the conspiracy which was discovered less than 24 hours before the revolt was to occur, and that execution would be the lot of all.

Woman Betrays Plot.

The uprising was to have taken place on Sunday, but one of the plotters talked too freely to a woman and she betrayed the conspiracy. The three men whose execution was set for 6 o'clock this morning, but who were saved by Gaviarra's postponement, are declared to have been the ringleaders in the plot.

They are Nicholas Chavirra, formerly secretary to Pascual Orozco; Sebastiano De La Cruz, once a colonel in the Villa army, and Florentino Hernandez, a staunch supporter of Villa, who enlisted in the Juarez garrison to spread dissatisfaction among the Carranzistas and enlist their aid.

According to Gen. Gaviarra, the pro-Villa plotters had enlisted as private in the Cremeria extra 200, planned to seize the Juarez barracks on Sunday, while the soldiers loyal to Carranza were attending the usual band concert. After rifles, machine guns and field pieces had been seized, the rebels expected to receive recruits from Villistas in El Paso who were awaiting word that the outbreak had been successful.

While the capture of Juarez was the first object of the conspiracy, it is believed here that its ultimate aim was to prevent supplies being sent over the Mexican railways to the American troops now hunting for Francisco Villa.
